

The Element of Choice

Date & Time: Tuesday, October 31, 2017 TIME TBD

Location: Hotel Roanoke and Conference Center

Description:

The Element of Choice© is a journey to discover how we make choices and when we let others or situations choose for us. The Element of Choice© opens outdoor educators to the “depths” of adventure facilitation and encourages them to see beyond the ineffective promises of participation by choice. Simply promising choice in your program is not enough. When promises of choice are broken or participants do not perceive they have a choice, risk becomes both physical and emotional. This potential for misadventure can defeat our goals for...recreation, personal growth and/or therapy.

This workshop is a powerful exploration of choice and the confusion between encouragement and coercion. It is a model for participant empowerment, and how an understanding of locus of control and self-efficacy can produce dramatic gains for your participants. You will leave with new awareness, language and tools to support dramatic growth and reduce the frequency and severity of incidents in your program.

Pre-Requisites: None

Cost: $125

Organization: Leahy and Associates

Workshop Coordinator: Thomas Leahy

Contact Information: tom@leahy-inc.com

